JUDGE WALTE'S TREATMENT.

A CONFLICT BETWEEN HIS DOCTORS. THE PAMILY GRIEVED OVER THE CONTROVERSY. STATEMENTS OF THE PHYSICIANS.

THE TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE!

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The family of the late Chief Justice are much grieved over a controversy which has arisen among the doctors who attended Mr. Watte in his last illness. The regular physician of the family is Mrs. Caroline Winslow, a homeopath. Dr. Ruth, of the Navy, is an old friend of the family, Dr. Ruth, of the Navy, is an old friend of the family, but has not been its physician. Being at the house on Tuesday and hearing that the Chief Justice was complaining of pains in the chest, he suggested that it be hathed with turpentine. When Dr. Winslow called on Weinesday she found that her treatment had been interfered with. The patient's chest, throat and beard being saturated with turpentine, she immediately ordered it washed off, and was extremely shocked to find that her directions had been altered. She insisted that nothing of the kind should be allowed to occur again. On her return on Thursday she insisted that for internal of the hint should be loved to occur again. On her return on Thursday she discovered that the turpentine had not been theroughly removed. She accordingly removed it with her own hands. She then learned that there had been further interference. Dr. Ruth had sat up with the Judge until late in the night and had given him nourishment every hour, while Dr. Winslow had ted that longer time should intervene, as the nations's stoma h was not in condition to receive bod oftener. She immediately had Eugene Brooks, the Judge's mossenger who had been acting as nurse, put aside, and placed Miss Rebecca Hart, a profesdouble marse in whom she had implicit confidence, in tharge. Miss Hart is a sister of Dr. M. Esther Burt, and a graduate of Bellevus Training School for charge Miss Hart is a sister of Dr. M. Esther Hart, and a graduate of Bellevus Training School for Summe. She was for some time in charge of the operating ward in that institution. Wish her in charge there was no more interference with the patient, and Dr. Wisslow's diagetions were implicitly obeyed. But under the circumstances she deemed it advisable that medical counsel should be summoned. This met Judge Walte's approval. She suggested either Dr. Janney or Dr. Gardner. Accordingly the latter gentleman was summoned, C. C. Walte going in person. Dr. Cardner came in the evening, and, after consultation, Dr. Winslow's treatment was sustained, the only change being that brand, was administered, Dr. Gandner holding that at Judge Walte's age stimulants would be beneficial.

The physicians state that the Judge had become a very sick man, but death was not considered harmlered. To a reporter of "The Post" Drs. Gardner and Winslow expressed themselves concerning Dr. Ruth's interference as follows. Dr. Winslow sad. "Oh, it is all over and nothing can be done. He as friend of the family and I would rather nothing thould be said. In forty years of practice this is the first case of pneumonia I have lost. But for furfy-eight hours my treatment was mullified and negatived. I could not express my freding when I found out what hat been done; and when I found that my orders to wash that torpentine off had not been carried out thoroughly I d'd it myself. I haven't been able to get the case off my mind; it has worried me and kept me awake. If Mrs. Walte had only been here it coundn't have kappened."

Dr. Gardner said:

"It was not my case and I do not feel at liberty to discuss that phase of it, but if I had been in charge from the beginning I should speak very plainly."

In justice to Dr. Ruth it ought to he stated that before starting West to day to meet Mrs. Walte on her way East from California, he denied in the most asplicit terms having interfered in any way with effect Dr. Euch of the palousy which regular pactifioners in te discuss the question of who is to succeed Chici hestice Waite. The name of Aften G. Thorman nat-bestice Waite. The name of Aften G. Thorman nat-leady suggests itself to most Democrats, but it is con-coled that he is too old, and though he might run the tlet of the Senate, it would, they think, be running much risk to put a near of his age in a place which the party must, for obvious reasons, wish to control for a long period to come. For the same reason the premotion of Associate Justice Field is out of the quesquite aside from the fact that but once in the histery of the court has an Associate Justice been pro-moted to the place of Chief Justice. It is true that the difference in salary is only $500, but the honor and reputation attaching to the Chief Justiceship are such as to make it reasonably sure that a promotion from among the ranks of the Associate Justices would result in almost breaking up the "court circle."

WHO WILL BE CHIEF JUSTICE? NAMES ON THE TONGUES OF POLITICIANS—CAR-LISLE OUT OF THE QUESTION.

Southern men pin their faith upon the President's ap southern men pin their later than open not while in the proteing Judge Jackson, of Tennessee. While in the feather he won the esteem of his colleagues, particularly those on the Judiciary Committee. He was maximously confirmed for his present position, that of Chruit Judge, within an hour after his nomination had reached the Senate. He has done nothing since he took his place upon the bench to diminish the esteem in owever, that his appointment would be like carrying to Nowcastle. It would not strengthen the party. Indeed, as far as that feature of the situation is concoracd, the appointment of no Southern man would accomplish that result. Naturally, therefore, it is Bought that the President will look toward the North

Judge Fuger, Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, at New-York, is frequently mentioned, and it is believed that he would accept though his present salary is nearly twice the sum that he would receive as chief Justice of the United States, and his present situation is scarcely less influential. The friends of Secretary Yflas think that he, too, stands a chance of being acminated. He is a moderately good lawyer, and his good epinion of himself is only exceeded by his ambities, and it is therefore unite natural that he should aspire to a place as exalted as that of chief Justice of the United States. His colleague in the Cabinet, Don M. Dicktoson, is known to have had for years an ambition to sit on the bonch of the Supreme Court. His nomination, however, is out of the question. He could never be confirmed. The Senate has not forgotten yet the scandalous appointments which were made by the President at his suggestion, nor is it likely to lose sight of the fact that he did not hesitate to debauch the tediciary of the country by securing the appointment of one of his most disreputable tools to the bench of the Sapreme Court of the Territory of Utah, in the persent of the Fresident and not promptly withdrawn his name when it hecame apparent that Mr. Dichinson's hobbying in his friend's behalf would prove in vain.

The chances of Speaker Carlisle cannot possibly be seriously entertained even by his warmest admirers and party friends. No matter what his qualifications as a lawyer may be or his learning as a jurist, his personal habits are well known to be such as to render him unfit for the position of Chief Justice, and to make his rejection by the Senate, if he should be aominated, a foregone conclusion.

Mr. Bayard, no doubt, would like to round off his career by ascending to the bench of the Supreme Court, but his qualifications as a lawyer repoor, in fact, it is doubtful whether he ever had a case before that rount. Quite aside from that his deafness is such as to unfit him for the discharge of the duties of a j Judge Puger, Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, of New-York, is frequently mentioned, and it is believed

WILL EDWARD COOPER GO ABROAD? THE REPORT THAT MR. PHELPS WILL BE CHIEF JUS-TICE, AND MR. COOPER MINISTER TO ENGLAND. Information has been received in this city from a source usually well informed concerning Administration matters, that President Cleveland contemplates appointing E. J. Piselps, now Minister to England, to the vacancy caused by the death of Chief Justice Waite, of the United States Supreme Court. There is a rumor that the Chief Justiceship may be offered to ex-Governor Hoadly. This is not man (Stanley Matthews) now on the Supreme Court beach, and when ex-Governor Hoadly came to New-York to practise law be lost his political follow-ing in Ohio. who are in a position to speak intelligently of the cliuation say that Mr. Hoadly is not considered by the President in connection with the place.

One strong reason why it is suggested the President may wish to appoint Mr. Phelps to the vacant Chief Justiceship is that it will leave him free to name ax-Mayor Edward Cooper as his successor to the Court of St. James. It is no secret that Mr. Cooper and Mayor Hewitt, who were among the hardest workers for Mr. Cleveland's election, and among the largest contributors to the Democratic among the largest contributors to the Democratic election fund in 1884, do not love Mr. Cleveland now. He has in no way recognized their services during that campaign. Worse than this. Relying on the assurances of Secretary Teller that lands in the Indian Territory could be lawfully leased from their Indian owners, Messrs. Cooper and Hewlit did lease large tracts of land for grazing purposes. When the President decided that these leases were invalid, and ordered all herds not belonging to Indian owners to be driven at once out of the Territory, Mr. Hewlit went to Washington and asked for a delay of a few months. If he were compelled to remove the herds at once, Mr. Hewlit assured the President great financial less would result to himself and others. The President refused to modify his order, and the lierds were removed, entailing a considerable loss on those who had gone into the Territory, on the assurance that the leases made by them would by valid. The President feels doubtful now whether he can secure the delegation from this State without the assistance of Messrs. Cooper and Hewlit. It is understood that for this reason he now desires to placate Mr. Cooper, and through him, his brother-inlaw, Mayor Hewlit, by offering him the best foreign appointment as his gift.

Ex-Mayor Cooper was seen by a Tribuse reporter last evening at his residence in Washington Square. To a request to know whether the appointment had been offered him, Mr. Cooper langled, and replied:

"THE TRIBUNE is in advance of me in this particular. No one has spoken with me on the subject. Further than this, L, of course, can say nothing." now. He has in no way recognized their services

JAMES M. HALSTED'S USEFUL LIFE.

HIS UNSELFISH SERVICES TO THE HOUSE OF REFUGE-THE PUBLIC DERT OF GRATITUDE.
To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: The obtinary notice in your columns on Friday last of the late James M. Halsted, in its brief mention of the fact that he was a manager of the House of Refuge at Randall's Island, did but seant justice to the value of his services in that institution and to the influence of his life-work on the morals of this great city, if not of the country at large. He was ciected a member of that institution in the year 1856, was chairman of perhaps its most important committoo, the school committee, entrusted with the employ-ment of teachers, the supervision of their methods of instruction and the counsel and encouragement of over six hop-hed boys and girls, the inmates of the institution. For more than thirty years, regardless of the inclemency of the weather, in winter and aummer, and notwithstanding the great distance of the institution from his home, he was faithful in his attendance at least one evening of every week; and to within a week of his death, and while suffering from rhoumatism, a disease which had nearly crippled him, he attended to the arduous duties of his position with a fidelity and intelligence which would have been remarkable in a younger and more vigorous man. Although belonging to the old school, by reason of his great age, he was a man of modern liters, had kept well abreast of the times, was marvellously quick to adapt himself to new methods of instruction, and com-prehended with a clear mind the solution of the daily problems which presented themselves to him in the conduct of the affars of the institution. It would be doing gross injustice to such long-continued and unselfish labor in the interest of this community if no mention were made of the record of his quiet, un-ostentations life of usefulness.

The Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents, having control of the House of Refuge, has for its high purpose that which is implied by its title. Its records show that over 70 per cent of the boys and girls who are committed to the House have, in consequence of its education and influences, been diverted from the ways of crime to the duties of good citizenship. Among its graduates are citizens hold-ing such high positions as judges of courts and leaders in their respective callings. Probably no higher percentage of the youth who have the advantages of good home instruction show such grafffying results as those lumates of the House of Refuge who have graduated from the parental care and teaching of the hind and unselfish old man who has just ended an exceptionally long and useful life. When it is taken into account that the institution on Randall's Island contains within its four walls the gathered children of crime of a large portion of the State, and that these children, if not trained in the ways of good citizenship, would inevitably become the enemies of society, growing more pe can for cyll with increasing years, some faint idea may be rormed of the benefits to the community of the work in which he labored. He community of the work in which he labored. He community of the importance of it, and realized that the thousands who passed out of the institution into the active and unrestrained life of a great city, with all its temptations, might be made a living stream of helpful influences, flowing between fruithibanks freshmed by its contact at every point, or a dangerous torrent, poisoning the great current with which it mingled. With a quick perception of the importance of purifying this stream at its fountainhead he worked day after day and year after year without emolument, with only the commendation of his own approving conscience and the graiffude of those for whom he labored. So well known was his lindly face to the thousands who had come under his influence that he was accosted day by day in the streets by men, women and chidren whom he had the office and hold that was accosted day by day in the streets by men, women and chidren whom he had done for them. But the great mass of his fellow-citizens, who have enjoyed a peare of mind and a safety of person and property which micht have been rudely and frequently disturbed hut for his valuable and unselfish labor. Rittle realized or appreciate how much they owe to the energetic and kind eld man who has gone to his rest.

He closed by presenting to a member of "The Tribune" staff the money raised for the Fresh Air Fund at the entertainment given two weeks ago for that purpose by the pupils of the college under the direction of Miss Cherry. Miss Cherry. The amount was $90.50. The money was tied un with ribbons of light blue, the colors of the college.

In acknowledging the receipt of the money the representative of "The Tribune" told how the Fresh Air Fund was started in 1877 when sixty children were taken out into the country at a cost of $188. During the eleven years of its existence the Fresh Air Fund has expended upward of $151,000 in taking nearly 05,000 poor children out into the country for a two weeks' stay. The Rev. Dr. Sampson, the president of the college, followed with a short speech upon the great value of the work of the Fund. He closed by stating that he would give enough to make the total amount from the college $100. The entertainment closed with several selections by Miss Cherry, who stoed surrounded by floral offerings from her friends and pupils.

OBITUARY.

JOHN T. HOFFMAN. John T. Liofman, who was twice Governor of New-York State, died at Wiesbaden, Germany, yesterday, from heart disease. The news reached this city through a cable dispatch sent to Johnes, Wilcox & Purdy, No. 44 Broadway, a law firm with which Mr. Hoffman was associated as counsel. It was signed by his married daughter, Mrs. Charles Sandford, and merely stated that her father had died from heart disease and that particulars would be sent later.

Mr. Hoffman, accompanied by his wife, salled for Europe on the Etruria on February 18, intending to join in Germany Mr. and Mrs. Sandford, who have for many years lived abroad. He was apparently in perfect health when he salled, but prior to his departare be made his will and seemed possessed of a strange foreboding that some danger was impending. "I have never in my life," he said to Mr. Johnes, "gone on any trip with such a presentiment of evil. I am well, but still I feel that something is going to hap-to be worth about $400,000, which presumably will be inherited by his wife and his daughter, Mrs. Sandford who was his only child. Mr. Hoffman was born at Sing Sing, N. Y., January 10, 1828. He was graduated from Union College, where he distinguished himself highly, in 1846, and was admitted to the bar in 1849, when he became of age. He had passed the necessary examination some time before that, but had to wait for his papers until he had reached his majority. He came to New-York to practise is v, and soon after his arrival became a member of the firm of Woodruff, Leonard & Hoffman. He was ambitious, and his tastes led him to seek advancement through politics. In 1854 he joined Tammany Hall, which was then fast growing in influence.

was amount through politics. In 1854 he joined Tammany Hall, which was then fast growing in influence.

Possessed of strong will, good address and many of the necessary qualifications for leadership Mr. Hofman soon made his influence felt in the councils of Tammany Hall and that organisation "took him up." That made his advancement rapid, but it was that which finally cut short his political career when it promised most.

He received the Tammany Hall nomination for Recorder in 1860, and was elected by a large majority. His charge to the jury in the celebrated Jafford murder case won for him high parise from lawyers of prominence. As Becorder he had also to deal with the draft riots, and while his course in that matter made him unpopular for a time among the disorderly elements of the city, it won him the approval of the law-abiding people. Ho was twice elected Recorder and then resigned from that office to go up higher. He accepted the Democratic nomination for Mayor and was elected. His popularity increased. He ran for Governor and was defeated, but his defeat was only the harbinger of saccess. Again he received the Democratic monitation for Mayor and was elected. He ran for Governor and was defeated, but his defeat was only the harbinger of success. Again he received the Democratic nomination for Governor and was elected, taking office on January 1, 1869. He ran again in the fail of 1870, and was a second time triumphant.

His good fortune was now at the flood. He was widely regarded as the coming leader of the Democracy. A nomination for the Presidency seemed not at all, improbable. But in 1871 came the Tweed Ring exposures, and Tammany Hall was for the time being crushed. These exposures did not in any way affect Governor Hoffman's character for integrity. No imputation of dishonesty ever rested upon him. But, nevertheless, the exposures proved fafal to his pollifical career. Tammany Hall had backed him, and when Tammany Hall fell he fell also. He felt the undeserved odhum keenly. He went to Europe for two years. His friends say that he might have had the Democratic nomination for Congress from Albany and would certainly have been elected, and might have made Congress the stepping stone to the Presidency. However that may be, he let the chance go by, and was never afterward politically resuscitated, for he was averso to beginning again lower down on the political ladder than where he left off. He continued to practise law, but did not devote himself to it with much vigor. The last case in which he figured was the Lenox will case, representing the contestants. He lived quietly at the Clarendon Hotel, visiting Europe nearly every year. He enjoyed the esteem and respect of a wide civile of friends, but was generally regarded as a disappointed man, and was often referred to as a striking example of a man of much ability who had been dropped out of politics, and passed in the race by near who were not nearly so well qualified as he to succeed.

by men who were not hearly so well qualified as he to succeed.

In 1856 he married Miss Starkweather, of New-York, and they had one daughter, now Miss Sanford, who has been already mentioned. About those years ago Mr. Hoffman lost a little grandson to whom he was greatly attached and his friends say that he was never the same man afferward. He was a man of fine presence, fall, broad-shouldered and erect in carriage. He read much, conversed well, hat a good fund of humor at his command and was possessed of an equable temper. He was a member of the Manhattar Taba, and there was recently some talk of making tim president of the club. His body will probably be brought to this country for burial.

practice of law, he became a successful rallroad operator and financier, and accumulated a large fortune. It's was born in Rhode Island and came to Waterville nearly half a century ago. He was a tacher in the college for awhile, then was admitted to the bar and practised with Timothy Boutelle. Except for a few years which he spent in the Northwest, as the superintendent of the Michigan Central, he has always lived in Waterville. He was the first superintendent of the Maine Central, and held that position until the consolidation. His energy and shrewdness made him successful in everything he undertook. He possessed an icon will, a vigorous constitution and strong mental powers. He at one time represented kennobes County in the Maine Senate, but was not inclined to take an active part in public affairs. He fed a leisurely life for the last six years.

Madison Square Garden is in a ferment. There is a dispute as to whether the young dromedary recently added to the Sarnum Show by Mrs. Rabu shall be called "Madison" or "Rob." The keeper of the mother and her promising son is strongly in favor of "Madison," but the other "powers that be" in the circus are just as strongly in favor of christening the newcomer "Rob." What the outcome of the dispute will be nebody knows. For the present the youngster answers as readily to "Rob" as to "Madison" and the thousands of visitors who daily pay "Madison," and the thousands of visitors who daily pay their attentions to the interesting couple can elicit not a word from Mrs. Raba as to what name she really wishes her offspring to be christened by. The little dromedary is a great attraction and bids fair to attain a successful maturity and spend many happy days under the guardian au-pices of the Barnum and Balley Circus.

Mayor Becker—There are not less than six Republicans who have been named who can carry the State of New-York against Cleveland or any Democratic candidate suggested. No man would be more likely to carry the State by a large majority than Chauncey M. Depew. I see no reason why he should not poll not only his party vote but the votes of many dissatisfied Democrats.

Robert R. Hefford—Depew is my choice. He is growing in strength rapidly and the only question is, will be be as well received in the West as here? My ticket is Depew and Gresham.

Ex-Congressman R. V. Pierce said he thought Blaine would be nominated. Judge H. J. Swift-Depew is one of the braintest men in the Nation-a thorough-going Republican, a protective tariff advocate, and by his treatment of the protective tariff advocate, and by his treatment of the men under his charge exemplifies the fact that he is a protector of the laboring man as well.

"I have expressed myself for Depew before," said County Clerk Charles A. Orr. "At the last Republican Convention I said that I believed he would be our strongest candidate in the fight of 1888. I believe that Mr. Depew can carry the State of New-York and in doing so will be elected if nominated, and before the time of the convention, comes I think there will be a general sentiment in favor of Mr. Depew in this State."

REMOVALS AT THE CUSTOM HOUSE,

NAVAL OFFICER BURT ANNOUNCES A NUMBER-THE COLLECTOR'S LIST IN WASHINGTON. THE COLLECTOR'S LIST IN WASHINGTON.

The Custom House Reorganization Commission—Deputy Collector John A. Mason, Special Agent Tingle and Auditor John M. Comstock—reported to Collector Magone yes terday the result of their deliberations on the proposed reduction of the Custom House force. Their report showed where reductions might be made temporarily with Invidation of invoices and the maining out of reports to the Treasury Benartment. The Collector sent his list of those shows services neight be dispensed with until Congress makes a december appropriation. If the list is approved by the Secretary the removals will be made to-morrow. The Collector refused yesterday to give the names, but it was intimated that it is composed of Republicans, whose whose ways is filled by Democrafs.

was intimated that it is composed of Republicans, whose places may be filled by Democrats.

Naval Officer Burt yesterday reduced his force so as to lessen the expenses in his department a small percentage below the rate allowed him. Before dismissing any clerks he had reduced expenses to the lowest figure, and John P. Strats, a liquidating clerk, appointed in August, 1870, resigned because of impaired health. The following are the dismissais in the branch for the liquidation of cargoes; Thomas G. Whytal, chief clerk, appointed April I, 1871; and Clerk William D. Crawford appointed November 16. rhomas & Waytai, chief clerk, appointed November 16, 1871; C. C. Church, appointed May 21, 1869; H. G. Carter, appointed July 17, 1865, and Exnest Merington, appointed December 14, 1885. The other removals were Clerks Frederick J. Graham, appointed December 7, 1886; Robert M. Butler, appointed October 19, 1886; William Rouere at the Appointed October 4, 1830, and Messenger Benson Van Voast, appointed April 21, 1884.

Surveyor Beattle returned from Washington yesterday and seemed in a happy frame of mind. He did not hint and seemed in a happy frame of mind. did not see how he could do so without serious embarrass-ment to his branch of the service, especially as there were uncome vacancies now. He will do all he can to avoid

DELICIOUS WATER AND FLOUR BREADS A NEW DISCOVERY.

A newly discovered process of breadmaking is adver-tised in another column, to which attention is called. Mr. Hyatt, who holds the right to the American patent once started will be able to declare dividends larger than any rational company, and only excelled (if at all by the Boil Telephone. It is to be hoped he may succeed, especially if his efforts should result in giving New-Yurkers two pounds of "delictus bread" for five cents in place of the one pound loaf new sold for the same money. is sanguine in the belief that his breadmaking company ----
